

Anger, Rage & Meltdowns: Calming the Storm in the Classroom

- with Mike Sumler, LMFT

With more and more children being diagnosed with neurological disorders, educators are faced with managing highly combustible emotions in the classroom. Are you an education professional dealing with anger, rage and aggression? Are you looking for a way to help the kids and diffuse the situation before it gets out of control? Mike Sumler can help!

Find more information on our website: www.joshuacenter.com.